As it would be your confirmation this coming Friday, I would like you to draw a picture with the name you have chosen and a sentence on why you chose it. You could add an image of a candle to the photo to illustrate the light of God coming into your lives. I will share all of the drawings I receive on the class blog. There will be a mass on Friday that will be broadcast for you to watch to mark the day. Please share on GC what you will be doing to mark the day and send a photo via seesaw to me and I can add it to the class blog also. Hopefully we will get to all have the real one together in the not too distant future.
